

Lonely Planet 2005

PASHA'S

900 Lincoln Road

Page 96

Pasha is a serious self-promoter judging by this place, a sleek, two-level, healthy fast-food emporium that has his name everywhere you look. No matter; the food at Pasha's rocks. Satisfy your hunger with a quick and delicious labneh (thick yogurt) or grilled-vegetable wrap, a plate of tabbouleh and hoummus or some grilled chicken served over rice. It's all good, and the interior feels as hip as a club.

PASHA'S

1414 Brickell Avenue

Page 100

A smaller, newer location than the Lincoln Road flagship, this branch of Pasha's offers healthy, heavily veggie options in a slick and casual spot, which is a welcome sight in this glitzy, high-rise hood. Try a kebab or veggie wrap, Mediterranean pizza or tabbouleh-hoummus platter. It's all good.